Monthly Comment

April was marked by heightened market volatility due to announcements on tariffs, notably Donald Trump's "Liberation Day" in early April, followed by the announcement of a 90-day pause in their implementation, ultimately giving way to a period of uncertainty regarding the outcome of bilateral negotiations. In Europe, monetary normalization continues, but new macroeconomic risks are weighing on the outlook for companies.

Against this backdrop, the STOXX Europe Small 200 NR outperformed the STOXX Europe 600 NR, respectively +2.14% vs -0.67%, driven in particular by "domestic" sectors such as real estate and utilities, as well as healthcare stocks, with those least exposed to the US holding up best.

Against this backdrop, ELEVA Leaders Small & Mid Cap Europe outperformed its benchmark in April, thanks in particular to the strong performance of Belimo (construction), Renk (industrial) and Euronext (financial). With uncertainty intensifying, we have increased the exposure to business models that are resilient to the economic cycle and the share of defensive stocks, which now account for 51.5% of the fund.

Since its inception, ELEVA Leaders Small & Mid Cap Europe is up 66.73% vs an index up 54.06%, an outperformance of 1 267 basis points.
