Cumulative performance

Monthly Comment

June was once again marked by geopolitical turmoil. Nevertheless, markets rebounded at the end of the month, buoyed by a string of positive developments, including rapid de-escalation of the conflict in the Middle East, expectations of interest rate cuts in the US this year, the initial signing of trade agreements, and renewed optimism about the potential of AI. Economic data will now have to confirm this optimism.

The Stoxx Europe Small 200 index NR is up 0.63% in June (vs. -1.22% for the Stoxx Europe 600 NR), with small and mid caps outperforming large caps in the first half of the year, up 9.47% and 8.78% respectively. Europe continues to benefit from capital inflows as investors seek alternatives to the US markets.

Against this backdrop, ELEVA Leaders Small & Mid Cap Europe is up 0.68% in June, helped by the strong performance of German stocks and good stock selection in technology and consumer discretionary.

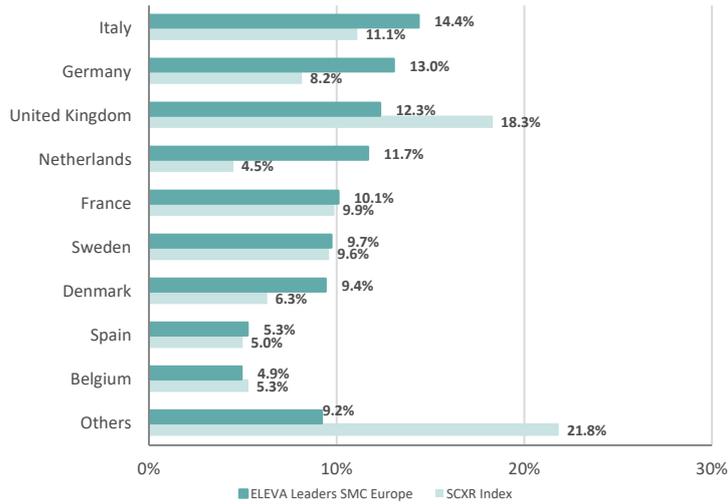

The recovery in proprietary macroeconomic indicators led us to slightly increase the fund's cyclical bias, which stood at 55% at the end of June.

Since inception, ELEVA Leaders Small & Mid Cap Europe has risen 75.74% compared to an index up 63.03%, representing an outperformance of 1 271 basis points.
