Monthly Comment

European markets are up in September, supported by the perception of an accommodative Fed and a seemingly unstoppable news flow of AI capex investments. US economic growth remained strong despite labor market weakness. European macro data remained resilient but were somewhat overshadowed by political instability in key European countries.

Against this backdrop, ELEVA European Selection was up 3.02% vs an index up 1.51%, an outperformance of 151 basis points.

Sector allocation had a slightly positive impact, thanks to the underweight in consumer staples and in energy as well as the overweight in industrials. Conversely, the overweight in information technology, communication services and materials had a negative impact on performance. Stock picking was positive, particularly in industrials, health care and materials.

UCB was a very strong performer that brought greater clarity on Mr. Trump's pharmaceutical policy, a material pipeline success with promising data for Galvokimig, and the failure of a competitive competitor's drug in Hidradenitis Suppurativa, a chronic inflammatory skin disease. ASM International had a positive investor day that highlighted strong growth opportunities in the medium term. Semiconductor assets were in demand on the back of the AI boom and expectations of a memory upcycle. Prysmian was also seen as a key beneficiary of the ongoing investments in electrification in its key US market. Defense assets, such as BAE Systems, rose on the back of renewed Russian tensions and continued order momentum in Europe and the US.

Flutter Entertainment was under selling pressure on fears that lightly regulated prediction markets could change the competitive landscape in the US. Lonza did not benefit from the better-than-stance of the Trump administration on drug tariffs.

Our proprietary European macroeconomic index (ELEVA Capital Index Europe) is improving slightly, while the global one (ELEVA Capital Index Global) is stabilizing. There may be some early signs of economic improvement in China. Patience is needed in Europe for interest rates and stimuli announcements to have an impact on economic activity. In that environment, we believe that corporates will still be able to grow at a moderate pace, but risks are growing with trade wars and US dollar weakness.

The fund's exposure to value and cyclical stocks is at 48.8% and 64.9% respectively.

Since inception, ELEVA European Selection is up 116.08% vs an index up 95.86%, an outperformance of 2,022 basis points.
